FIRST BOAT OF THOR RESCUED AFTER TWO DAYS

A further account of how the Norwegian steamer Thor, carrying general merchandise from San Francisco to the Far East, was wrecked in mid-ocean 800 miles north of Honolulu, and told today by the survivors of the first boat, which was commanded by Captain Ole Hansen. They are in Honolulu on the way to San Francisco from Japan, where they were taken on the N. Y. K. steamer Tsuyama Maru, which picked them up two days following the wreck. The other boat, commanded by First Mate Anderson, reached Honolulu in November.

According to Purser K. Williams, from the moment the Thor left San Francisco November 1, she was forced to buck a severe storm. On the 17th the storm grew worse and the Thor, which is "turret" build, began to break up. The pumps were manned and for 24 hours the crew managed to keep the water down. The next day the steamer showed further signs of going to pieces and so Captain Hansen ordered the small boats away with 15 men in each at 9 o'clock in the afternoon. Just when the Thor went down is not known as the mist was so thick that it was impossible to see a hundred yards after the boats put away, but undoubtedly she sank the night of the 18th.

For the rest of the afternoon the two boats kept together but at sunset they lost touch with each other. For two days and three nights Captain Hansen steered in a southeasterly direction experiencing terrible weather. On the morning of the 21st the storm broke and as the light grew stronger smoke was seen on the horizon and at 9 o'clock the Tsuyama Maru hove to, and picked up the weary and hungry men. With Captain Hansen were Purser Williams, Second Mate Arthur Hansen, the chief steward and 11 seamen and firemen. During the time they were in the small boat they had sailed 200 miles towards Honolulu.

As they were not exposed for such a length of time as the crew of the second boat, the next day on the Tsuyama Maru saw them as fit as ever. As the Tsuyama Maru ran short of coal due to the storm she was forced to put into Mororan, Japan, where the Thor's officers and crew were landed December 8.

"It was a terrible experience," said Purser Williams, today, "but happily no one was lost. The two days in the small boat were a constant round of bailing, and many times it was only by working at top speed that we were able to keep afloat. Wave after wave threatened to swamp us but we never gave up hope and bailed the harder. You may be sure that we were mighty glad when the Tsuyama Maru hove in sight."

SENECA'S 1917 SUGAR TAKES OLD FREIGHT RATE

Not all of the sugar cargo of the Seneca, approximately 7000 tons, will have to pay the new freight rate of $15 a ton to New York via the canal. The 1917 sugar which she carries, amounting to about two-thirds of her cargo, will go at the old rate of $9.50 a ton. The 1918 sugar she carries, however, will take the higher rate. Contrary to expectation the Seneca did not clean up all the 1917 crops. There is still some of this year's sugar at Big Island points.

CHIEF JUSTICE SILENT ON FUTURE ASSOCIATION

PAY TO GERMAN WAR PRISONERS BARRED BY U. S.

Germany's refusal to reply to a proposal from the United States regarding the payment of officers held prisoners of war has been answered by an order from Secretary of War Newton D. Baker that no further pay to Germans so held in this country be issued. A cable message received today by Brig. Gen. John P. Wisner, commanding the Hawaiian department, says:

"Germany having failed to make reply to agreement proposed by our government through neutral diplomatic channels regarding pay of commissioned officers held prisoner of war, secretary of war directs no further payments be made such prisoners in custody of the United States until Germany expresses willingness to reciprocate."

No German prisoners of war are held in Hawaii at present, so far as known. It is customary for the commissioned officers of an enemy country the pay given its own officers of corresponding grade by the country holding the prisoners.

AMERICANS BRING JOY TO FRENCH AT XMAS

stern manner, the soldiers entering into the fun quite as much as did the half-wondering youngsters.

Pretty Ceremony Held

When the door was opened a beautiful program reminiscent of the sacred character of the occasion was given, beginning with a procession of children, mostly French, decked in their best clothes and accompanied by their mothers or refugees driven from the land occupied by the Germans and now seeking for the first time the happiness of an American Christmas.

Suddenly, as the procession of children appeared, ready to enter the hall, the lights flashed on, revealing not only one but a miniature forest of Christmas trees, decked with gay toys, candy, fruit and lighted candles, while around the bases were piled boxes of toys and clothing.

When Santa Claus appeared, a great, stalwart figure in the traditional costume, it suddenly dawned on the crowds of children, their mothers and other relatives and friends, and especially the refugees, that it was not only a Christmas for "les Samiens" but for themselves also. The soldiers themselves had provided gifts for the children and poor families and practically the entire American division watched the distribution of gifts.

Not a child among the thousands was forgotten. Each child received an individual gift. Then the soldiers distributed candies, fruits and toys. The children laughed and cried with happiness, and many of the mothers broke down and cried also, while not a few of the big soldiers in their uniforms furtively wiped their eyes.

Similar entertainments were held at all bases and camps where the Americans are quartered. Great, toothsome "turkey dinners" were served, there was a generous distribution of "smokes" and candy, and all in all the expeditionary force spent a real American Christmas.
